Saturdays are special days. My son, Bruno, and I always go to the big outdoor market. The market is in the center of the city, and it's always busy and full of energy.

Today, the market is very crowded. There are people everywhere! The fruits and vegetables are incredible. The apples are bright red and the carrots are long and orange. The vegetables are very fresh today. I'm happy about that.

We're at our favorite food stall now. The owner's name is Sofia. She's always very friendly. Her food is delicious.

"Hello, Bruno! How are you today?" she asks.

"I'm great, Sofia! We're hungry," Bruno says with a big smile.

"The tacos are ready and they're very good," she says.

It's true. The tacos are amazing. The music from a nearby guitar is loud and cheerful. It's a perfect Saturday. I am very happy when I'm at the market with my son.
